Article I. This department sets these rules to encourage the students (including both regular and in-service students) to publish their academic papers in academic journals or on conferences, or publish their works.

Article II. The works or papers published in the local academic journals and monographs by the students in this department, can be subsidised NT$5,000. The works or papers published in the local conferences in Taipei city and New Taipei city by the students in this department, can be subsidised NT$1,500. The works or papers published in the local conferences outside of Taipei city and New Taipei city by the students in this department, can be subsidised NT$3,000. The applicants need to explicitly indicate their affiliation with this department in the works or papers. The application for local publication is once per person per year. Co-authors should be funded according to the contribution percentage proof signed by co-authors.

Article III. The papers published in the foreign academic journals and monographs by the students in this department, can be subsidised NT$7,000. The papers published in the foreign conferences by the students in this department, can be subsidised NT$5,000. The applicants need to explicitly indicate their affiliation with this department in the works or papers. The application for foreign publication is once per person per year. Co-authors should be funded according to the contribution percentage proof signed by co-authors.

Article IV. The budge of the sum needed in these Rules is opened by the Department Dean every year, and audited by the Finance Group and then implemented. The total sum is verified and pronounced by the end of December every year.

Article V. The students who apply for subsidies must fill in one copy of the application and hand in relevant documents, and the copies are to be collected by the date of December 25th every year. Applicants must maintain their publication list on the NCCU school website.

Article VI. The papers applied to be subsidised should be mainly about the relevant fields of this department and can only be the ones published in that year of application. Applicants cannot propose subsidy application if the paper proposed has received funding from other institutions.

Article VII. The Rules are implemented after the Department Council Meeting has passed them, which is the same for revision.
